

COEXISTENCE

Be a part of *Coexistence!

Activity 1:

On-Site Coexistence Scavenger Hunt

Use scavenger hunt document. Groups can print out or download hunt to a mobile device for onsite use.

Scavenger Hunt

Step 1: With a partner or in a small group, pick any piece of art to start with.

Step 2: Discuss the art piece with your partner/group: What do you see? How does the art make you feel? It is okay to disagree with your group as long as everyone is respectful of everyone else.

Step 3: Find the artist's name on the worksheet and answer the question. There are no wrong answers!

Step 4: Follow the directions to find a new piece of art.

Seymour Chwast, USA

How does war change the way we see and talk about the world?

Now, find another art piece that makes you think of war.

Milton Glaser, USA

The poster says that "we are all African." What else are we all as humans?

Next, find another piece of art that features a hand or hands.

Mark Cross, New Zealand

Look closely. What kind of common ground have the people found?

Next, find an art piece that makes you sad.

Jacqueline Bishop, USA

The new Holocaust Museum Houston will feature a lot of butterflies, many made by students. What does a butterfly symbolize to you?

Next, find an art piece with a symbol you think is interesting.

LeeAnn Falciani, USA

How can you pass on the idea of coexistence to someone else?

Next, find another art piece with multiple hands.

Jiri Svetlic, Czech Republic

Why do you think the artist put a question mark after the word "coexistence?"

Next, find another art piece with multiple faces.

Halmut Brade, Germany

How can we live together when we live in the same space?

Next, find another art piece that contains two of something.

Bojidar Ikonov, Bulgaria

There is a common saying about burning bridges. But what does it mean to build a bridge between you and someone else?

Next, find an art piece with red in it.

Leonard Konopelski, USA

If the two faces were talking to each other, what do you think they would be saying?

Next, find another art piece where the characters might be having an interesting conversation.

Folon, Belgium

What did you see in the art the first time you looked at it? Take four steps toward or away from the art piece. Did what you see change?

Next, find an art piece that looks like it could be a dream.

Yoko Ono, USA

What object(s) do you see? What do you think they are supposed to do?

Next, find another art piece in just black and white.

Letita Bouwer, South Africa

What is different between the two figures? What is the same?

Next, find another art piece with a heart in it.

Marten Jongema, Holland

Why do you think the boy is wearing a mask?

Next, find another art piece where it looks like someone might be wearing a mask.

Takaaki Fujimoto, Japan

Why do you think some of the eyes are crying?

Next, find another art piece with at least one eye in it.

Lanny Sommese, USA

This piece references an organization called Amnesty International, which works to protect human rights. What happens when someone's human rights are taken away?

Next, find an art piece with no hands in it.

Pippo Lionni, France

What happened the last time you looked at someone or something from a different angle?
Next, find another art piece you think might be interesting from multiple angles.

Philippe Apeloig, France

What different facial expressions do you see?
Next, find another art piece with many colors.

Shigeo Fukuda, Japan

In this piece, the big picture is made up of many small things. What are those small things?
Next, find another art piece where something is repeated.

Long Gang, China

What is one nonviolent way of solving a conflict?
Next, find another art piece that you think might be about nonviolence.

Dennis Paul, Germany

What does one small act of coexistence look like?
Next, find an art piece that also includes something from nature.

Yarom Vardimon, Israel

Why do you think the artist chose to use the colors in this piece?
Next, find another art piece with a big word.

Jaroslav Sura, Czech Republic

What do you think the hands are doing?
Next, find an art piece where a hand is holding something.

Lex Drawinski, Germany

Figures: How does it feel to have something taken away from you?
Next, find another art piece where you can only see part of a person rather than all of them.

Lex Drawinski, Germany

Racism: What does it feel like to be stepped on?
Next, find another art piece that you think addresses race or racism.

Nammala Galada, South Africa

What would the world be like if we all had the same face?

Next, find an art piece that includes people who are different.

Lejla Bulja, Sarajevo

What would the world be like if we were all the same?

Next, find an art piece with multiple people in it.

Asim Abu-Shakra, Um el-Fachem

What does the word "dialogue" mean to you?

Next, find another art piece with unusual creatures.

Fabienne Feltus, Luxembourg

What do you think the artist was thinking when they created this image?

Next, find another art piece with a white background.

Istvan Orosz, Hungary

What kind of coexistence does the artist show in this piece?

Next, find another art piece with green in it.

Andre de Castro, Brazil and Sergio Liuzzi, Brazil

Why do you think the artists chose to focus on bones rather than on skin?

Now, find another art piece that includes bones.

Lanny Sommese, USA

What is the first step you should take to understand someone different?

Next, find another art piece with a bridge.

Andrzej Pagowski, Poland

What does it feel like to be different from everyone around you?

Next, find another art piece with birds.

Shigeo Fukuda, Japan

What does peace look like to you?

Next, find another art piece where people are touching.

Joram Rozov, Israel

Why do you think the artist chose to show the word "coexistence" backwards?

Next, find an art piece that you are not sure you understand.

Armando Tejuca, USA

What can you tell about the figures in the piece from their body language?

Now, find another art piece where something or someone casts a shadow.

Yasuyuki Uno, Japan

Do you think the eggs are similar or different on the inside? Why or why not?

Next, find another art piece that contains two of something.

Yossi Lemel, Israel

What does "teamwork" mean to you?

Next, find another art piece where you see teamwork.

Jose Rementeria, USA

What message do you think the artist is trying to convey with this piece?

Next, find another art piece with a plant or plants.

Cedomir Kostovic, USA

How are you similar to your best friend? How are you different?

Next, find another art piece that you think is about the equality of people.

Piotr Mlodozieniec, Poland

What would the world look like if all religions coexisted?

This picture was made into a bumper sticker. Next, find another art piece you think should become a bumper sticker.

Mervyn Kurlansky, England

What is one person, place, or thing that you love on planet Earth?

Next, find an art piece that you think is interesting.

Raphie Etgar, Israel

Faces: What is similar about the faces you see? What is different?

Next, find an art piece with no faces in it.

Raphie Etgar, Israel

Homeland:

What does the word "home" mean to you?

Next, find an art piece that you might want to hang in your home.

Geoff Budd, New Zealand

If who you are on the inside was written on your face, what would it say?

Next, find an art piece with a word on it that is not "coexistence."

